

Most states have training and certification for law enforcement officers through a Peace Officers Standards and Training (POST) program organized on the state level and directed at general law enforcement officer duties. POST agencies within the various states may be contacted for state specific information.

The International Association for Identification (IAI) offers certification programs for law enforcement officers in several fields, including Latent Fingerprint Identification, Voice Identification Analysis, Crime Scene Investigation, Forensic Art, Bloodstain Pattern Analysis, and Footwear and Tire Track Examination.