

NODIA, or Network Of Death Investigation Affairs, is an information center about death investigation nationwide. Death Investigation occupies a central position in the marriage of forensic science, medicine, the law, public health, and criminal justice. NODIA provides information about each of these disciplines as they relate to death investigation; links to sites that contain additional information; and other useful information about death investigation systems, personnel, and practices.

NOTE: As this site is built, additional menu topics will be added. The listing of organizations and links to various web sites on the pages accessible from the menu below is for information purposes only and does not indicate endorsement by the National Association of Medical Examiners unless specifically stated.